Student Support Services

Navajo Preparatory School's diverse support services promote student success through a healthy living environment and extra academic assistance with after-school tutoring and study hall.

The Betty Ojaye Student Center, one of our newest additions, is where most of our student support services are located, including a comfortable dining hall serving nutritious meals with scenic views of the school grounds and student recreational area.

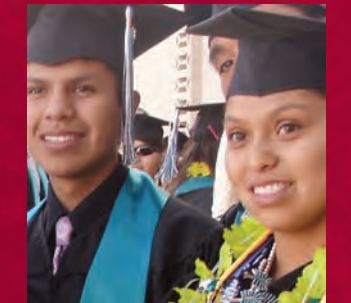

The McKenzie School Based Health Center provides on-campus medical care to students and has established partnerships with local communities for optimal health care services. Sports physicals, wellness exams, vision and dental appointments can be conveniently scheduled on campus to alleviate any absences that may prevent student participation in the classroom for optimal academic success.

Students can now enjoy a beautiful library for their leisure reading and studying, with a support area for easy access for students and parents.

Transportation services extend to most of the Navajo Nation and locally within Farmington, New Mexico.

Academics

The mission of Navajo Preparatory School is threefold: First to prepare our students for a post-secondary education and to be leaders in their current and future endeavors. Second is to provide a rigorous academic program rooted in the Navajo philosophy of learning. Third is to create independent individuals through the residential program.

Over 95% of our graduates continue with a college education. Navajo culture is integrated in the school curriculum, both as school-wide activities and within individual course content.

Cultural Emphasis

Navajo Prep integrates Navajo philosophy in our academic program as well as our residential program. We strive to inform, educate and implement a cultural environment not only for our students and staff but the community as a whole.

The NPS Senior Atsa Exhibition, with a strong emphasis on culture, is a yearlong study for seniors. The Exhibition demonstrates students' research methods, presentation skills, and serves as a foundation for their future collegiate endeavors and career.
